

Intersectionalities, Disabilities & Livelihoods

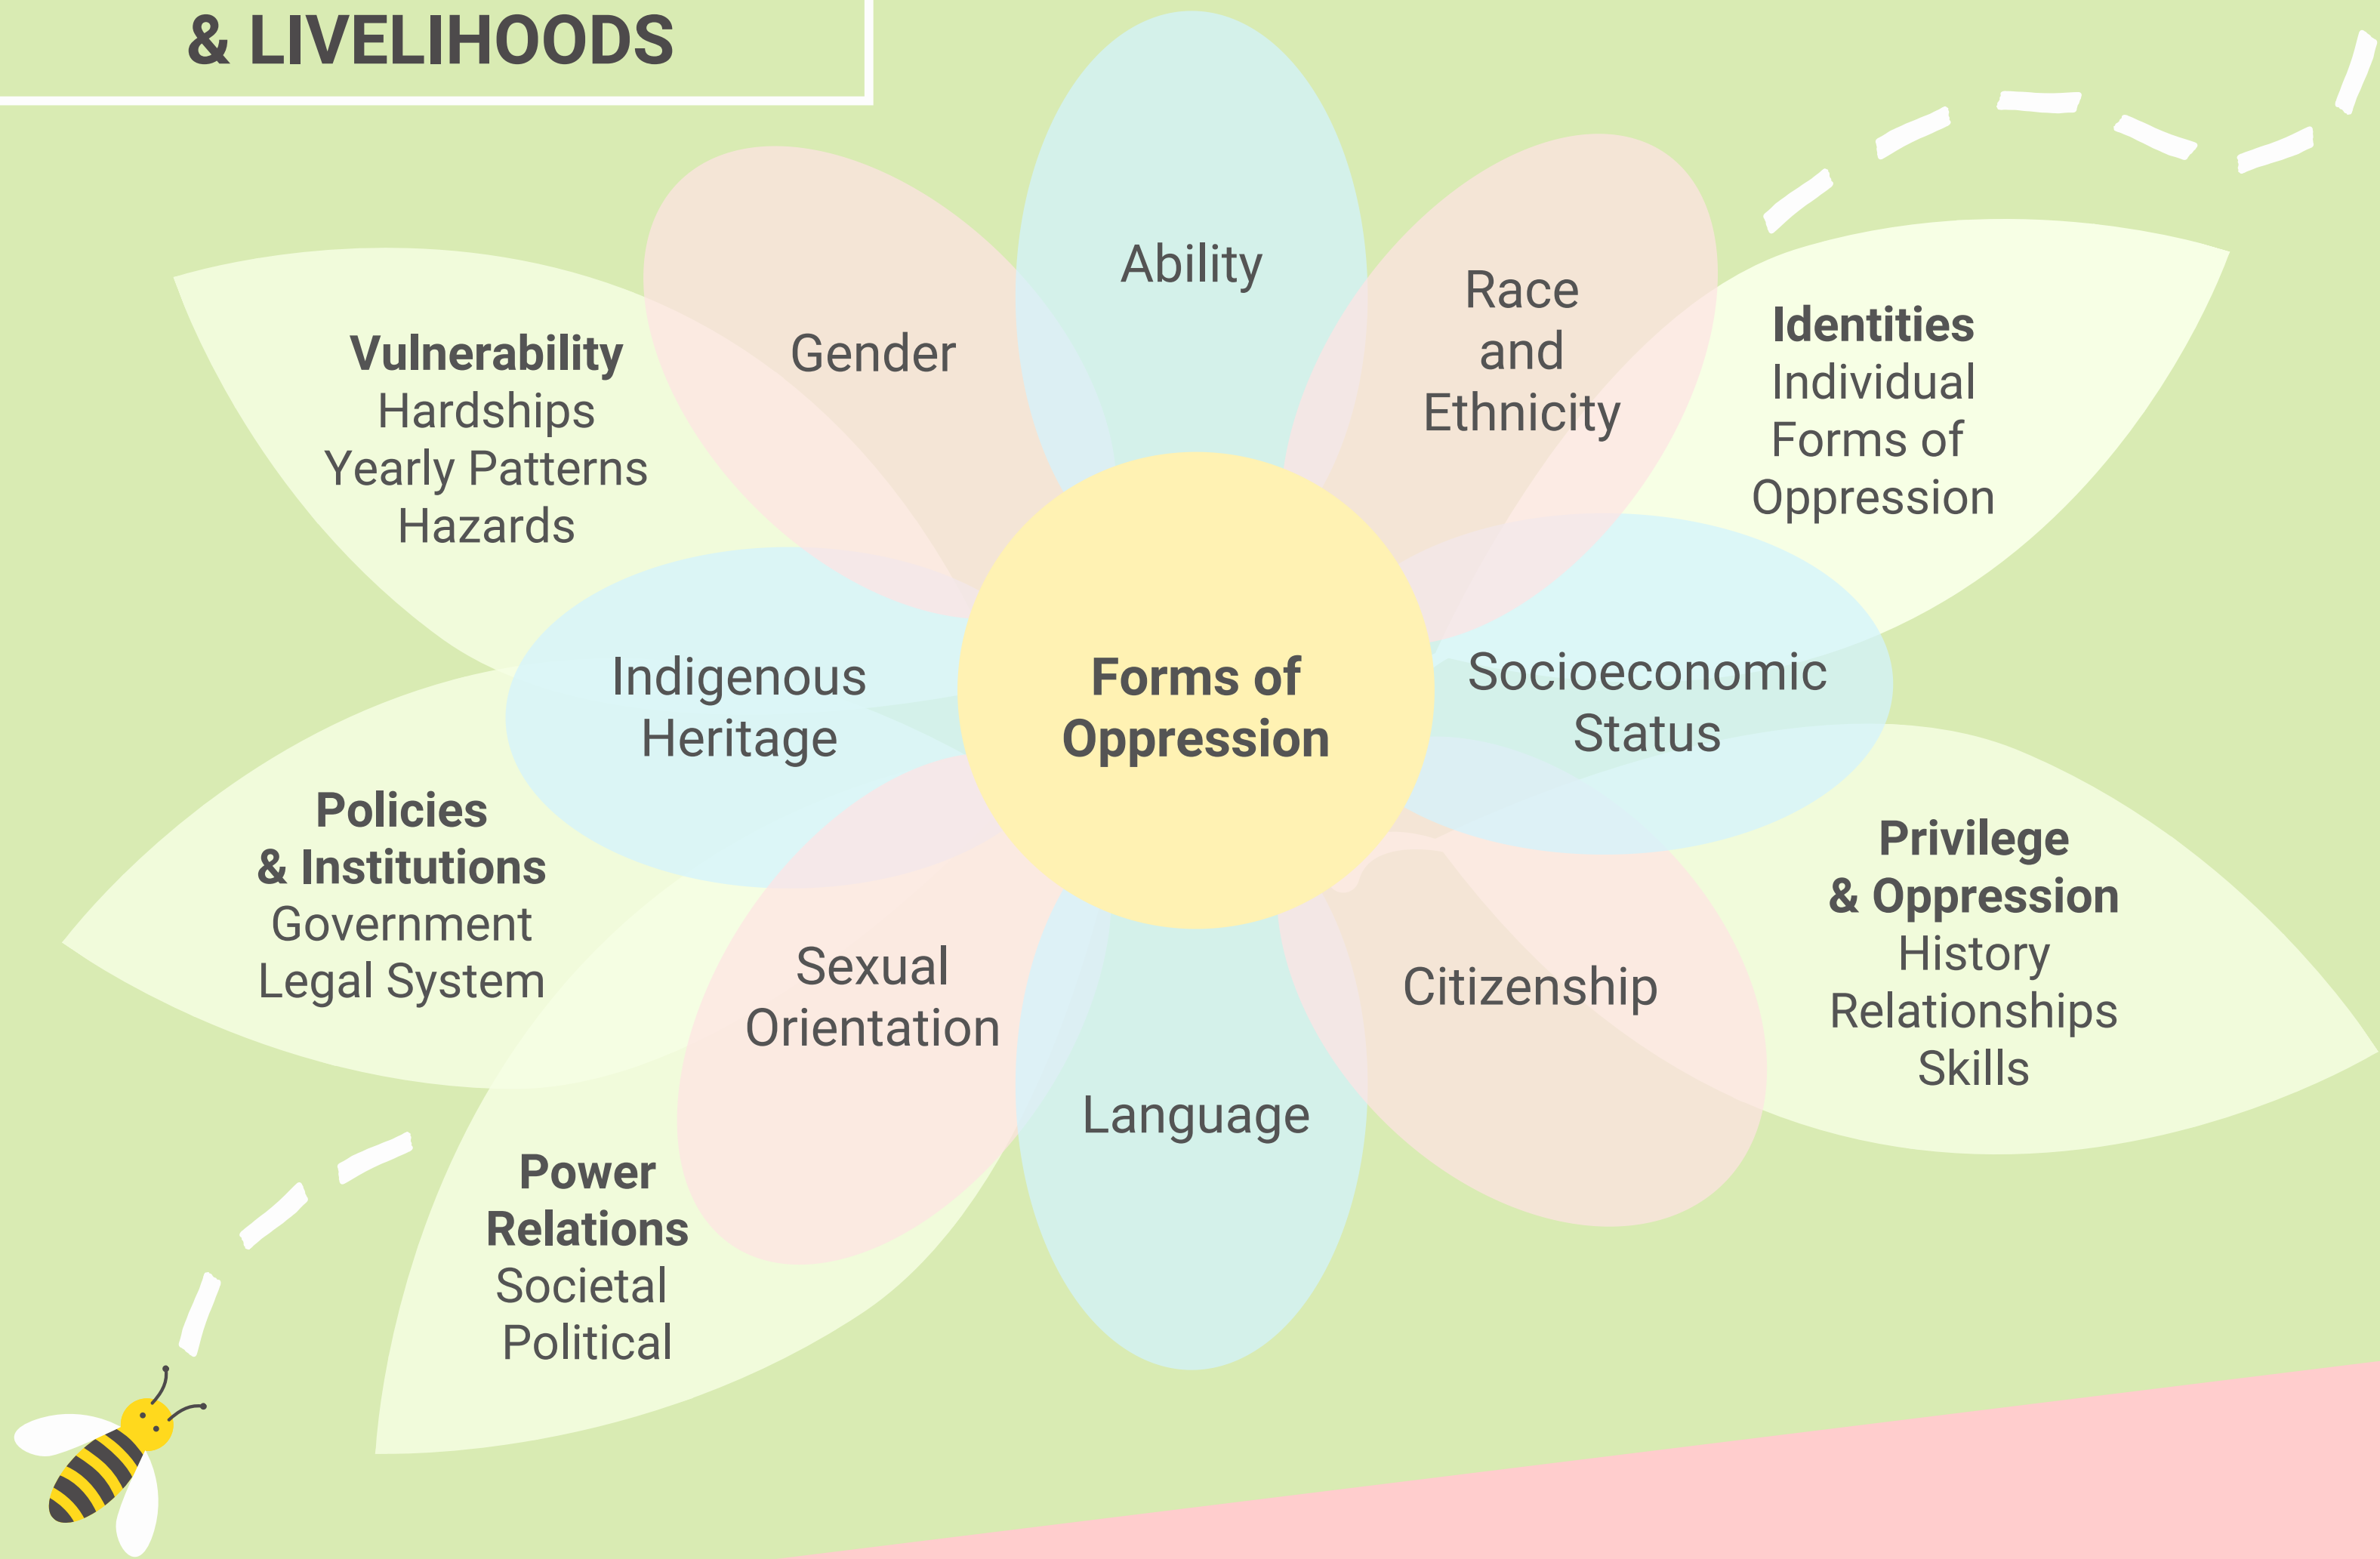

WHAT IS INTERSECTIONALITY?

Intersectionality is a research framework and an everyday practice. It is a tool to analyze how different forms of oppression (i.e. ability, gender, race, etc.) combine and impact each person's life uniquely

Intersectionality was developed by Black feminist academics (Crenshaw, 1989; Hill Collins, 1986; Lorde 1984). Researchers, organizations, and community change-makers use this framework to create fair and equitable societies for everyone

INTERSECTIONALITIES & LIVELIHOODS

1

How do forms of oppression (e.g. gender, race, immigration status, language) interact with disability to shape how someone makes a living and a life?

2

How do social locations relate to goal-setting, perceptions of what is possible, creating strategies, and reaching outcomes?
